Subject: Truth in Lending

It would be great if congress would put limits on the outrageous behavior of these credit card companies, raising rates without notice, allowing you to go over limit and then penalizing you for going over when it is within their capability to stop you at your limit at the point of sale, or to at least inform you that you will go over and then be penalized. I have never received any hint that I had gone over until I received the bill with penalties. this should not be allowed. Suzanne McHugh
